

Introduction - Grade 8 English–Language Arts

The following released test questions are taken from the Grade 8 English–Language Arts Standards Test. This test is one of the California Standards Tests administered as part of the Standardized Testing and Reporting (STAR) Program under policies set by the State Board of Education.

All questions on the California Standards Tests are evaluated by committees of content experts, including teachers and administrators, to ensure their appropriateness for measuring the California academic content standards in Grade 8 English–Language Arts. In addition to content, all items are reviewed and approved to ensure their adherence to the principles of fairness and to ensure no bias exists with respect to characteristics such as gender, ethnicity, and language.

This document contains released test questions from the California Standards Test forms in 2003, 2004, 2005, 2006, and 2007. First on the pages that follow are lists of the standards assessed on the Grade 8 English–Language Arts Test. Next are released passages and test questions. Following the questions is a table that gives the correct answer for each question, the content standard that each question is measuring, and the year each question last appeared on the test.

The following table lists each strand/reporting cluster, the number of items that appear on the exam, and the number of released test questions that appear in this document.

STRAND/REPORTING CLUSTER	NUMBER OF QUESTIONS ON EXAM	NUMBER OF RELEASED TEST QUESTIONS
• Word Analysis	9	10
• Reading Comprehension	18	22
• Literary Response and Analysis	15	17
• Writing Strategies	17	21
• Written Conventions	16	25
TOTAL	75	95

In selecting test questions for release, three criteria are used: (1) the questions adequately cover a selection of the academic content standards assessed on the Grade 8 English–Language Arts Test; (2) the questions demonstrate a range of difficulty; and (3) the questions present a variety of ways standards can be assessed. These released test questions do not reflect all of the ways the standards may be assessed. Released test questions will not appear on future tests.

Reminiscing

by Ralph Cortez

- 1 Watermelons were so much sweeter then,
- 2 When boys were the stuff of super men,
- 3 And summers seemed so much longer too,
- 4 With nothing pending and nothing due.
- 5 We were swordsmen—swashbuckling heroes,
- 6 Eternal victors—never zeroes;
- 7 Second basemen and clean-up hitters;
- 8 Forever winners, never quitters.
- 9 Play was a ritual in those days,
- 10 To go on magical mind forays,
- 11 To play the game with aplomb and ease,
- 12 To venture forth when and where we'd please.
- 13 We would feign death, and then rise up again.
- 14 Watermelons were so much sweeter then.

Piano

by D. H. Lawrence

- 1 Softly, in the dusk, a woman is singing to me:
  - 2 Taking me back down the vista of years, till I see
  - 3 A child sitting under the piano, in the boom of the tingling strings
  - 4 And pressing the small, poised feet of a mother who smiles as she sings.
  - 5 In spite of myself, the insidious mastery of song
  - 6 Betrays me back, till the heart of me weeps to belong
  - 7 To the old Sunday evenings at home, winter outside
  - 8 And hymns in the cozy parlor, the tinkling piano our guide.
  - 9 So now it is vain for the singer to burst into clamor
  - 10 With the great black piano appassionato. The glamour
  - 11 Of childish days is upon me, my manhood is cast
  - 12 Down in the flood of remembrance, I weep like a child for the past.

Murphy

from “Dogs That Have Known Me”

How I Got to Be Perfect

by Jean Kerr

1 The dog that gave us the most trouble was a beagle named Murphy. As far as I’m concerned, the first thing he did wrong was to turn into a beagle. I had seen him bounding around on the other side of a pet-shop window, and I went in and asked the man, “How much is that adorable fox terrier in the window?” Did he say, “That adorable fox terrier is a beagle”? No, he said, “Ten dollars, lady.” Now, I don’t mean to say one word against beagles. They have rights just like other people. But it is a bit of a shock when you bring home a small ball of fluff in a shoebox, and three weeks later it’s as long as the sofa.

2 Murphy was the first dog I ever trained personally, and I was delighted at the enthusiasm with which he took to the newspaper. It was sometime later that we discovered, to our horror, that—like so many dogs—he had grasped the letter but not the spirit of the thing. Until the very end of his days he felt a real sense of obligation whenever he saw a newspaper—any newspaper—and it didn’t matter where it was. I can’t bring myself to go into the details, except to mention that we were finally compelled to keep all the papers in the bottom of the icebox.

3 He had another habit that used to leave us open to a certain amount of criticism from our friends who were not dogophiles. He never climbed up on beds or chairs or sofas. But he always sat on top of the piano. In the beginning we used to try to pull him off of there. But after a few noisy scuffles in which he knocked a picture off the wall, scratched the piano, and smashed a lamp, we just gave in—only to discover that, left to his own devices, he hopped up and down as delicately as a ballet dancer.

4 It’s not just our own dogs that bother me. The dogs I meet at parties are even worse. I don’t know what I’ve got that attracts them; it just doesn’t bear thought. My husband swears I rub chopped meat on my ankles. But at every party it’s the same thing. I am sitting with a group in front of the fire when all of a sudden the large mutt of the host appears in the archway. Then, without a single bark of warning, he hurls himself upon me. He settles down peacefully on my lap. I blow out such quantities of hair as I haven’t swallowed and glance at my host, expecting to be rescued. He murmurs, “Isn’t that wonderful? You know, Brucie is usually so distant with strangers.”

5 At a dinner party last week, after I had been mugged by a large sheepdog, I announced quite piteously, “Oh dear, he seems to have swallowed one of my earrings.” The hostess looked really distressed for a moment, until she examined the remaining earring. Then she said, “Oh, I think it will be all right. It’s small and round.”

6 Nowadays if I go anywhere I just ask if they have a dog. If they do, I say, “Maybe I’d better keep away from him—I have this bad allergy.” This does not really charm the lady of the house. In fact, she behaves rather as though she’d just discovered that I was back in analysis for my kleptomania. But it is safer. It really is.

The Blind Men and the Elephant

by John Godfrey Saxe

It was six men of Indostan
 To learning much inclined,
 Who went to see the Elephant
 (Though all of them were blind),
 5 That each by observation
 Might satisfy his mind.

The First approached the Elephant,
 And happening to fall
 Against his broad and sturdy side,
 10 At once began to bawl:
 “God bless me! but the Elephant
 Is very like a wall!”

The Second, feeling of the tusk,
 Cried, “Ho! what have we here
 15 So very round and smooth and sharp?
 To me ’tis mighty clear
 This wonder of an Elephant
 Is very like a spear!”

The Third approached the animal,
 And happening to take
 20 The squirming trunk within his hands,
 Thus boldly up and spake:
 “I see,” quoth he, “the Elephant
 Is very like a snake!”

25 The Fourth reached out an eager hand,
 And felt about the knee.
 “What most this wondrous beast is like
 Is mighty plain,” quoth he;
 “’Tis clear enough the Elephant
 30 Is very like a tree!”

The Fifth, who chanced to touch the ear,
 Said: “E’en the blindest man
 Can tell what this resembles most;
 Deny the fact who can
 35 This marvel of an Elephant
 Is very like a fan!”

The Sixth no sooner had begun
 About the beast to grope,
 Than, seizing on the swinging tail
 40 That fell within his scope,
 “I see,” quoth he, “the Elephant
 Is very like a rope!”

And so these men of Indostan
 Disputed loud and long,
 45 Each in his own opinion
 Exceeding stiff and strong,
 Though each was partly in the right,
 And all were in the wrong!

My Fingers

by Mary O'Neill

My fingers are antennae.
Whatever they touch:
Bud, rose, apple,
Cellophane, crutch—
5 They race the feel
Into my brain,
Plant it there and Begin again.
This is how I knew
10 Hot from cold
Before I was even
Two years old.
This is how I can tell,
Though years away
15 That elephant hide
Feels leathery grey.
My brain never loses
A touch I bring:
Frail of an eggshell,
20 Pull of a string,
Beat of a pulse
That tells me life
Thumps in a person
But not in a knife.
25 Signs that say:
“Please do not touch,”
Disappoint me
Very much.

Setting the Shutter Speed on the Higgins CS-12 Camera

The shutter is a mechanical device that opens and closes in front of the lens of the camera, allowing you to control the amount of light that strikes the film. The shutter dial indicates shutter speeds in fractions of a second (1000 = 1/1000th of a second; 500 = 1/500th of a second). Beginning with 1000, each shutter speed gradation is approximately twice the preceding speed. The following chart serves as a general guide.

Brightness	Shutter Speed (seconds)
Indoors	1/30 to 1/60
Outdoors	1/125 to 1/250
Bright beach sands—snow-covered landscape	1/500 to 1/1000

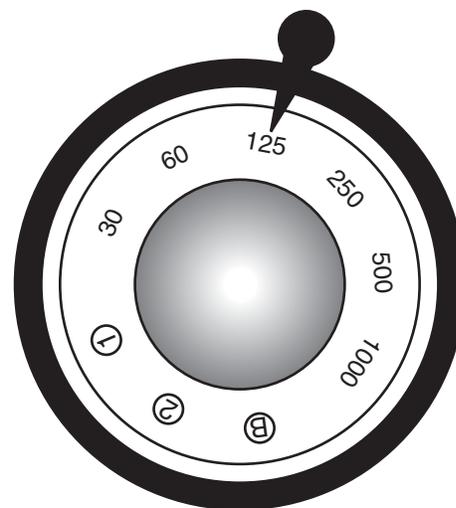

In order to choose the correct shutter speed, you must consider two main factors: the brightness of the setting and the amount of movement in the subject.

For Indoor Photography:

- ◆ In a normally lit room—1/30 of a second

Should students do the grading?

The Supreme Court says the practice doesn't violate a student's right to privacy, but is it right for students to grade one another?

Document A

Pro

- 1 The Supreme Court was absolutely correct to say it's OK for students to grade one another's homework, quizzes, and tests; in fact, it's a great idea.
- 2 By grading one another's papers and seeing the problems their peers encounter, as well as their own, students double their exposure to the troubles that they may meet on future exams and tests. The basic purpose of school is to learn not just what others have done right, but to learn from what they have done wrong. How better to teach this than to put it directly into the lives of students?
- 3 Teachers are underappreciated and underpaid for the number of hours they have to work to be able to really teach well. Grading all their students' papers can take hours on end. Some of that time and energy can be saved by spending a few minutes in class, while providing an invaluable learning experience.
- 4 I understand that some individuals are sensitive to their classmates seeing their work or grades. School is a place where every mistake can be learned from, and self-esteem can be built. Any good teacher would make allowances for students who don't want their classmates to grade their assignments.
- 5 Grading one another's papers may be one of the best ways for students to reinforce within themselves the ways to respond to the most difficult parts of what they are learning. It simply can't be denied that in-class grading of assignments is a great way to learn, and those with personal issues can resolve those issues if they just present their problems to their teachers. Allowing students to learn in the best way they are able should be the responsibility of society. If learning in school upsets some students and their parents, perhaps they don't really realize what they are upset about.

Document B

Con

- 1 A girl cringes as her classmate announces her failing test grade and hands her the paper, bathed in the red ink of the student grader. The composure of the classroom gradually deteriorates.

- 2 With the increase in student grading over the past few years, scenes like this have become a bitter reality in schools across the nation. Teachers are not only instructing their students to grade one another’s papers, but also to announce the final grades to the class, subjecting them to the harsh judgment of their peers. Teachers and schools should not advocate student grading and public announcement of grades because it provides a traumatizing breach of privacy for students and families and it subjects students to harsh judgments and treatment by their peers.
- 3 Since 1974, a law known as the Buckley Amendment has prohibited the release of education records maintained by schools in order to preserve the privacy of students and their families. I strongly disagree with the Court’s ruling that this law [the Buckley Amendment] does not pertain to student grading.
- 4 I can think of no greater breach of privacy than the exposure of one’s personal information to a group of peers. This can be very embarrassing and cause unfair judgment by one’s colleagues. Releasing this sort of personal information should be avoided, especially by institutions that seek to provide a supportive environment conducive to mutual learning during essential years of human development.

Departure

by Sherwood Anderson

- 1 Young George Willard got out of bed at four in the morning. It was April and the young tree leaves were just coming out of their buds. The trees along the residence streets in Winesburg are maple and the seeds are winged. When the wind blows they whirl crazily about, filling the air and making a carpet underfoot.
- 2 George came downstairs into the hotel office carrying a brown leather bag. His trunk was packed for departure. Since two o'clock he had been awake thinking of the journey he was about to take and wondering what he would find at the end of his journey. The boy who slept in the hotel office lay on a cot by the door. His mouth was open and he snored lustily. George crept past the cot and went out into the silent deserted main street. The east was pink with the dawn and long streaks of light climbed into the sky where a few stars still shone.
- 3 Beyond the last house on Trunion Pike in Winesburg, there is a great stretch of open fields. The fields are owned by farmers who live in town and drive homeward at evening along Trunion Pike in light creaking wagons. In the fields are planted berries and small fruits. In the late afternoon in the hot summers when the road and the fields are covered with dust, a smoky haze lies over the great flat basin of land. To look across it is like looking out across the sea. In the spring when the land is green the effect is somewhat different. The land becomes a wide green billiard table on which tiny human insects toil up and down.
- 4 All through his boyhood and young manhood, George Willard had been in the habit of walking on Trunion Pike. He had been in the midst of the great open place on winter nights when it was covered with snow and only the moon looked down at him; he had been there in the fall when bleak winds blew and on summer evenings when the air vibrated with the song of insects. On the April morning he wanted to go there again, to walk again in the silence. He did walk to where the road dipped down by a little stream two miles from town and then turned and walked silently back again. When he got to Main Street clerks were sweeping the sidewalks before the stores. "Hey, you George. How does it feel to be going away?" they asked.
- 5 The westbound train leaves Winesburg at seven forty-five in the morning. Tom Little is conductor. His train runs from Cleveland to where it connects with a great trunk line railroad with terminals in Chicago and New York. Tom has what in railroad circles is called an "easy run." Every evening he returns to his family. In the fall and spring he spends his Sundays fishing in Lake Erie. He has a round red face and small blue eyes. He knows the people in the towns along his railroad better than a city man knows the people who live in his apartment building.
- 6 George came down the little incline from the New Willard House at seven o'clock. Tom Willard carried his bag. The son had become taller than the father.

- 7 On the station platform everyone shook the young man’s hand. More than a dozen people waited about. Then they talked of their own affairs. Even Will Henderson, who was lazy and often slept until nine, had got out of bed. George was embarrassed. Gertrude Wilmot, a tall thin woman of fifty who worked in the Winesburg post office, came along the station platform. She had never before paid any attention to George. Now she stopped and put out her hand. In two words she voiced what everyone felt. “Good luck,” she said sharply and then turning went on her way.
- 8 When the train came into the station George felt relieved. He scampered hurriedly aboard. Helen White came running along Main Street hoping to have a parting word with him, but he had found a seat and did not see her. When the train started Tom Little punched his ticket, grinned and, although he knew George well and knew on what adventure he was just setting out, made no comment. Tom had seen a thousand George Willards go out of their towns to the city. It was a commonplace enough incident with him. In the car there was a man who had just invited Tom to go on a fishing trip to Sandusky Bay. He wanted to accept the invitation and talk over details.
- 9 George glanced up and down the car to be sure no one was looking, then took out his pocketbook and counted his money. His mind was occupied with a desire not to appear green. Almost the last words his father had said to him concerned the matter of his behavior when he got to the city. “Be a sharp one,” Tom Willard had said. “Keep your eyes on your money. Be awake. That’s the ticket. Don’t let anyone think you’re a greenhorn.”
- 10 After George counted his money he looked out of the window and was surprised to see that the train was still in Winesburg.
- 11 The young man, going out of his town to meet the adventure of life, began to think but he did not think of anything very big or dramatic.
- 12 He thought of little things—Turk Smollet wheeling boards through the main street of his town in the morning, Butch Wheeler, the lamp lighter of Winesburg, hurrying through the streets on a summer evening and holding a torch in his hand, Helen White standing by a window in the Winesburg post office and putting a stamp on an envelope.
- 13 The young man’s mind was carried away by his growing passion for dreams. One looking at him would not have thought him particularly sharp. With the recollection of little things occupying his mind, he closed his eyes and leaned back in the car seat. He stayed that way for a long time and when he aroused himself and again looked out of the car window, the town of Winesburg had disappeared and his life there had become but a background on which to paint the dreams of his manhood.

Jackson Is Only One of My Dogs

by Pam Houston

- 1 I have a dog named Jackson, who between the ages of four and five, in people years, became suicidal. In a period of less than twelve months, Jackson jumped out of the back of a speeding pickup truck, ate a fourteen-pound bag of nonorganic garden fertilizer, and threw himself between the jaws of a hundred-and-fifty-pound Russian wolfhound.
- 2 Jackson is only one of my dogs. The other dog, the good dog, whose name is Hailey, passed through her early adulthood without any discernable personality changes. Hailey is matronly and brindle-colored, with a rear end that is slightly out of alignment. Jackson is shaggy and blond, all ears and feathers.
- 3 While Jackson is clearly a human being trapped in a dog’s body (one day he lost his senses and buried a bone in the yard and I was no more embarrassed for him than he was for himself), Hailey knows what she is and is proud of it. What she likes to do, more than anything, is to get her belly wet and then lie around in the dirt. Jackson is athletic, graceful, obnoxious, and filled with conceit, while Hailey is slow, a little fat, and gentle to her bones.
- 4 Jackson also has a truck neurosis. His whole life is centered around making sure that the truck I drive doesn’t leave without him. When he is in the house he keeps one eye on it in the driveway, when we’re on the road I never have to tell him to stay. It’s where he likes to eat and drink, where he wants to spend his afternoons; it’s the only place he’ll let himself sleep soundly. Sometimes, when we are backpacking, and thirty miles from anywhere, I’ll say, “Go get in the truck, Jackson,” just to play with his mind.
- 5 I have always had a better relationship with Jackson than with Hailey. Part of it, I guess, is that you always love the problem child a little more, and part of it is the squeaky-wheel thing; Hailey is simply a low-maintenance dog. Jackson, on the other hand, is a charm machine. He has cost me over two thousand dollars in vet bills, I don’t even keep track of the money that goes to the dogcatcher, and who gets all the treats? Just ask Hailey.
- 6 About once a month I have to go and bail Jackson out at the pound. I walk into the dark, urine-splattered corridor to find him resting comfortably, paws crossed. He’s shooting the breeze with the malamute next to him. “What’re you in for this time?” he’s saying. “Dog at large, or something worth talking about?” He raises one furry eyebrow in my direction. “Hi, Mom,” he says. “What kept you?”

Edward’s English class was given an assignment to write a letter to the city council members about a community concern. Edward wrote the following letter, which may contain errors.

Dear Greendale City Council Members:

- 1 I am writing about a problem that has arisen in my neighborhood. I live at 212 Parker Street in the Northridge Park subdivision. Two doors down from my family’s home sits a house that has been abandoned. Mr. Jones used to rent that house, but he moved out over six months ago. Since then, no one has occupied it. The problem is that whoever owns the house has not kept the grass cut or trimmed the hedges. This house makes our whole neighborhood look sloppy, and something must be done soon.
- 2 I am a pretty resourceful guy, so before writing to you, I tried to solve the problem myself. My father suggested that maybe the owner of the house might live out of town and not know the extent of the problem. I thought that if I could find a name and address for the owner, I could write him or her a letter explaining what is happening to the property. I used the Internet to access public records about the house, but the owner of that house is not listed. I would gladly volunteer to cut the grass on that property to keep it from looking so ugly; instead, to go on that property without the owner’s permission would be trespassing. At this point, though, I can’t think of any other way to solve the problem.
- 3 I am writing to ask you to please help our neighborhood find a way to take care of this eyesore. Perhaps you can access records that are not available to us and contact the owner or give us his or her name and address.

Sincerely,

Edward Thompson

The Lost Art of Letter Writing

(1) Many people use email today to communicate with each other. (2) If you have access to a computer, it’s a great way to send messages easily, in a quick manner, and on as many occasions as you like. (3) No longer is it necessary to find a pen or paper, not to mention an envelope or a stamp.

(4) Are we missing anything by not writing actual letters to people? (5) Is the experience of receiving such letters worth the trouble of writing them? (6) Most people would probably reply “No it was a waste of paper anyway; this is a much better system.” (7) It’s hard to argue against such a logical viewpoint. (8) However, I would like to try.

(9) I believe that the kinds of letters people used to write tended to be more meaningful than the vast majority of the billions of emails sent today. (10) Of course, when it comes to sending quick messages to convey specific information, email is the best. (11) If time is important, email is particularly useful. (12) If, however, you want to really reach out and touch someone, a letter is more personal.

(13) Handwritten letters are the most personal. (14) If you can type fast, you can fit a lot into a letter. (15) What’s lacking is that special sense of the person that comes from seeing her or his handwriting. (16) As long as it’s legible, it doesn’t matter how tidy it is. (17) When someone sits down and writes just for you, you feel that when you’re reading it.

(18) Though I’m a teenager, I confess that I too feel thrilled to receive a letter in the mail. (19) I love seeing my name written by hand on an envelope. (20) You make yourself a nice cup of cocoa or lemonade, sit down in a cozy place, open your letter, and enjoy everything that the person put into those words just for you. (21) What a gift!

The Amazing Maize Maze

(1) When the Egyptians built the pyramids, they included mazes to trap thieves. (2) Even if a thief managed to enter a pyramid, they would probably never find his or her way out. (3) Other ancient mazes have been found, from Sweden to New Mexico. (4) Some are carved in rock or painted on cave walls, while others are built from dirt, stones, or bricks. (5) In Ireland and Wales, pictures of mazes are put on jewelry and in paintings. (6) Mazes have been built into the tall hedges of grand gardens in England.

(7) In 1986 the Fulks family of Fredericksburg, Virginia, decided to create a maze in their cornfield on the Belvedere Plantation. (8) Donnie Fulks and his four sons cut some paths here and there through the tall corn. (9) Soon this “Maize Maze” was so popular with friends and neighbors that the Fulkses found themselves creating a new maze each year as a new crop filled the field.

(10) Some people return each year. (11) To keep it challenging for them, each corny maze is somewhat different from the previous ones. (12) In 1998 the Fulks family hired world-famous maze designer Adrian Fisher to create a huge maze covering 15 acres, or 650,000 square feet. (13) Each new pattern is first worked out on a computer, and the one used in 2001 had to be changed eighteen times before it was just right. (14) After it was finished, Donnie Fulks and his sons took a detailed drawing of the pattern divided into squares. (15) They then started cutting the pattern into the cornfield.

(16) People from all over the country come out to the Belvedere Plantation to try to find their way through the Fulks family’s maze. Michael’s social studies teacher has asked the class to write reports. Below are the first three paragraphs from Michael’s rough draft. It may contain errors.

Faces of Stone

- 1 Easter Island is just a dot in the Pacific Ocean off the coast of Chile. It is a relatively small island. It has a total area of only 63 square miles. It is volcanic. This is probably why it has no trees. The island is shaped like a boomerang, and each of its three corners has an extinct volcano.
- 2 Easter Island was relatively unknown until 1722, when Dutch Admiral Roggeveen arrived with the first Europeans ever to set foot on the island. To their surprise, they were greeted by hundreds of mammoth stone statues lining the shores. To the Europeans, the giant legless creatures appeared strange indeed. All were “figures of men with short square bodies and strangely oversized heads, many balancing red stone cylinder-like hats on their heads.” They were very similar to one another, each with a large nose and long ears, but they were not identical. Each face was taller than a human being, and many were as tall as a four-story building.
- 3 For an early society to have made these enormous figures with only stone tools was an amazing feat in itself. What was even more baffling was how the people moved the creations, some of which weighed many tons. The discovery of a large stone quarry unlocked clues. It was apparent that this was the site where the statues had been carved before being moved to their final resting places. Some statues appeared to be complete, while others were barely started. When work on these statues was suddenly abandoned, some were in the process of being moved. It was obvious that the statue builders had cut down the island’s trees to make rolling logs and wooden scaffolds, which were then used to carry the huge statues from the quarry to the island’s perimeter.

Laura García is running for student council president. Brad Daniels wrote this letter for publication in the student newspaper. It contains errors.

Vote for Laura

Dear Glenview Junior High Student Body,

- 1 In two weeks, we will be voting for student council president. Don't let the sun set on election day without voting for Laura García. As the campaign manager for Laura, I would like to tell you why she is the best person to lead our student council and student body.
- 2 Laura is a good leader. As the vice president of the student council last year, Laura was able to accomplish a great deal for the students on our campus. She could see the value of pep rallies for football games; for example, she wanted other sports, clubs, and organizations to benefit from the spirit and encouragement our students show at pep rallies. It was Laura who organized the other rallies our students enjoyed last year. Laura was also responsible for the victory pizza parties and the picnics. As a student leader, Laura knows the importance of celebrating the successes of all the students at Glenview Junior High School.
- 3 If elected president this year, Laura promises to do even more for our student body. Laura wants Glenview to become more involved in our community. She believes that if our students become more involved in community activities, our community will become more involved in our school activities. Laura believes that there is no limit to what our campus can accomplish. She knows that we can achieve great things with our community's help.
- 4 With her proven record of achievement and dedication, Laura is the clear choice for student council president.

Sincerely,

Brad Daniels

The Massachusetts 54th Infantry Regiment

- 1 In 1863, Governor John Andrew of Massachusetts made an important decision when he allowed African-American men to enlist as Union soldiers in the Civil War. Some of these new enlistees was assigned to the 54th Infantry Regiment. Members of the 54th were not the first African Americans to fight. Their brave acts made the group one of the most famous.
- 2 In May 1863, the 54th Infantry Regiment, led by Colonel Robert Shaw, completed its training and headed into battle. In July, the troops were sent to take Fort Wagner, a Confederate military installation, in Charleston, South Carolina. A small part of this beach was the only entrance to this target on Morris Island. Members of the 54th believed that the Union Navy had already weakened the fort; however, the soldiers faced tremendous gunfire as they approached the fort’s walls. Their commanding officer ordered the troops over the wall and into their worst battle. The soldiers fought hard, but realized that they had little chance of winning. Sergeant William Carney, the flag bearer of the 54th, was severely injured as he carried the flag back to safety. As a result of his bravery, Carney was the first African American to receive the Congressional Medal of Honor.
- 3 Almost half of the soldiers in the 54th Infantry Regiment were wounded or killed in the onslaught at Fort Wagner. Word of the courageous acts of these Union soldiers spread throughout the northern states and led to a great increase in the enlistment of African Americans. The regiment unit even played a role in securing equivalent pay for African-American soldiers.
- 4 After fighting at Fort Wagner, however, the men of the 54th had no time to rest. The 54th Infantry Regiment went on to fight in several other battles, and in August 1865, the soldiers were discharged from the United States Army. In 1897, a Monument was sculpted in Boston, Massachusetts, to commemorate the heroism of the 54th. This memorial honors these heroes appropriately by depicting Colonel Shaw and his troops marching into battle.

The following is a rough draft of a student’s letter. It may contain errors.

Dear Sebastian Valley School Board:

- 1 Currently, school commences before most people even dream about waking up. I would like to ask that the starting time be changed at our school. Classes at Sebastian Valley Middle School simply start too early in the morning.
- 2 In spite of what many people believe, teens and pre-teens need as much sleep as younger children. Getting the recommended eight to nine hours of sleep each night is almost inconceivable when classes begin at 7:30 A.M. In order to shower, dress, get organized, eat a quick breakfast, and meet the school bus by 6:45, I would have to get up at 5:45.
- 3 Early in the morning, students are too sleepy to learn well. Sleep is food for the brain. Without sufficient sleep, young people cannot think clearly, complete assignments, or enjoy learning. According to a report entitled “Are Students Getting Enough Sleep?” from a recent edition of Sebastian Valley Times, “sleepiness decreases concentration, reduces short-term memory, and causes bad moods.”
- 4 Researchers have learned that teens routinely fall asleep and wake up later than adults. Teens who stay up late at night have trouble getting up early in the morning. Studies show that some schools have already adjusted school hours to better match the teen sleep cycle; consequently, students in these schools are learning better on the new schedule.
- 5 Some of my classmates argue that starting school an hour later will prevent them from participating in after-school athletic programs and extracurricular activities. A solution would be to hold extracurricular activities before school instead of after school. Those students who are involved in sports, drama, and clubs would continue to arrive at the usual time. The rest of the student body could get a little more sleep and arrive an hour or so later.
- 6 To sum up, teens need as much or more sleep than adults, have a later sleep cycle, and learn and behave better when rested. For these reasons, I would like to suggest that we have an assembly to discuss the issue of the school start time and give all students an opportunity to vote.

Thank you for considering this request,

Tom Sullivan, Grade 8

83 Which sentence could best be added at the end of the first paragraph to generate reader interest?

The following is a rough draft of a student’s letter. It contains errors.

Dear Consumer:

- 1 Are you concerned about the quality of our environment? Do you look for new ways to conserve energy? Do you ever wonder what can be done to protect our natural resources? Consumers can and must make a difference by considering alternate energy options.
- 2 Each year electric utilities in the United States provide trillions of kilowatt-hours to their customers, but this energy source gives off tons of carbon monoxide. Carbon monoxide is a colorless, odorless gas and is poisonous and is sometimes deadly. This situation makes it necessary to use other sources of electrical power sources that are safer cleaner and renewable. Two types of environmentally friendly energy sources are hydropower and solar power. Even these sources have those pros and cons.
- 3 Solar power, which transforms the sun’s energy into electricity, can be used anywhere there is abundant sunlight, and this type of energy system can operate for long periods without replacement. After collecting energy from the sun, huge panels store the solar power. Once installed, solar panels do not need to be monotored very often. They do need a large, expensive battery bank; consequently, the cost of installation can be high.
- 4 Hydropower which uses the movement of water to create energy, is less expensive per kilowatt-hour than solar power and does not require a battery bank. Hydropower plants must be located near water and can be very expensive to install because the water source must be diverted to the plant.
- 5 Both solar power and hydropower produce less pollution than electrical power, and both are renewable. Solar power and hydropower are quiet, you can rely on them, and clean. These two sources of power provide possible alternatives to coal- and fossil-fuel-burning plants, which create pollutants in our air and water. While the initial cost and effort of using environmentally friendly power sources might be high, the price of not using them is even higher.

Sincerely,

A Concerned Citizen
